IS GIVING AMERICA MORE FRAMERS TO THANK.
Norbord
Norbord
In launching #THANKAFRAMER last Labor Day, we didn't expect our video saluting American framers to get millions of views. Or that framers would thank us for caring. Why do we care? Because we're nothing without framers. They install what we make. And there aren't enough of them. This slows house construction, hurting our customers and the economy.
To help, we're supporting the Home Builders Institute in training hundreds of new framers. We're dedicated to helping unemployed, underemployed and underserved youth become framers.

GHBA Members Changing Lives Through Charitable Giving

By GHBA President DON KLEIN, Chesmar Homes

I recently read that America has been named the most generous nation in the world. Our citizens give the most to charity, according to the Charities Aid Foundation (CAF), with New Zealand and Canada right behind us. So it may not be difficult to understand why Americans gave a record $410.02 billion to charity in 2017, especially when you consider a surging stock market and an increase in historic natural disasters that are making headline news.

These facts make me proud to be an American. I am also proud to be a GHBA member, where charity has been a foundation of our association since 1941, the first year we were chartered. You don't have to look too hard to find evidence of the giving nature of our members both to charity and to our community.

Our 38-year-old charity, the Benefit Homes Project (BHP), is one of the first GHBA charities to become a game-changer in raising funds for a variety of different organizations throughout its history. The impact the BHP has had over time is staggering when you understand the mission of each agency it benefits. The $10 million raised by the BHP has supported families struggling with Alzheimer's and been applied to children's cancer research.

Most recently, hundreds of thousands of dollars has been donated from the BHP to HomeAid Houston, GHBA's 501c3 charity, for building transitional shelters for Houston's homeless men, women, children and veterans. Because our members consistently contribute materials, labor and services, HomeAid Houston has become a hallmark organization within our community and across the nation.

The same goes for our charity, Operation FINALLY HOME (OFH). Our members are stepping up without hesitation to build mortgage-free homes for wounded, ill or injured service members and their families. If you haven't attended one of the OFH surprise groundbreakings or Welcome Home Ceremonies with the military families, I encourage you to do so. There is rarely a dry eye there.

Another prime example is the newest charity, and first of it's kind for GHBA—BuildAid Houston—an initiative of HomeAid and GHBA and initiated by David Weekley through the David Weekley Family Foundation just days after Hurricane Harvey swept through our area. A number of GHBA builder members are donating their construction personnel and experience to its cause, which is to restore flooded homes for folks of medium to low income who don't have the means to do so on their own. The goal is to help 250 homeowners over the next year.

GHBA has set a great example of an association using its core competency to improve our community. I can't remember a time when there has been more support, dedication and commitment by our members than the past seven or eight years. Several CBC and RMC members have partnered with HomeAid Houston on construction and remodeling projects. The Remodelers' Charity Garage Sale is becoming a legend in its own time; the general public and the GHBA staff, sponsors and our member volunteers spend an incredible amount of time making this fundraiser a huge success year after year.

The Associate Council's Frank Aranza Adopt-A-Family Program reflects the giving spirit of our members around the holidays as they invest time and money into making this a special event for families in need.

And there is another one close to my heart. It is the Associate Council Scholarship Fund that raises valuable contributions to ensure children of our members get a good start on their secondary education. These are awarded to students based on community services, financial need and grades, and funds come from our rapidly growing membership who share the same sense of giving back.

I know I haven't hit every GHBA sponsored charity or fundraiser in this article, but browse through your monthly Houston Builder Magazine or read your weekly online newsletter, and you'll see the names and the faces of your colleagues and friends who are changing lives. ■

TAMLYN has you COVERED.

TamlynWrap®

When Hurricane Harvey made landfall in Texas, August 2017, it dumped 27 trillion gallons of rain, damaging nearly 135,000 homes, and costing taxpayers billions of dollars. Ineffective water management caused siginificent structural damage.

With Tamlyn's innovative housewrap, it effectively eliminates excess moisture and mitigates the damaging effects of mold and rot. Its unique, PATENTED DESIGN REMOVES AT LEAST 100 TIMES MORE BULK WATER FROM A WALL VERSUS STANDARD HOUSEWRAPS. This is achieved through a gap created by 1.5 mm spacers bonded to a high-performance housewrap, allowing water to freely drain away from the building structure, eliminating further water damage.

Waters of the U.S. Rule Implementation Halted in Texas

By BRADLEY PEPPER, Director of Government Affairs

Recently, there has been much confusion over the implementation of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (the Corps) joint Clean Water Act (CWA) "Waters of the U.S."(WOTUS) definition and rule.

As we have previously noted, the new rule would dramatically expand jurisdiction under the Clean Water Act and the ramifications of the rule would have been severely punitive on business—especially for the home building, land development, construction and transportation infrastructure sectors.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce concluded that under the new rule, "virtually any business that owns or operates a facility or has property would be adversely affected, particularly if it has ditches, retention ponds for storm water runoff, fire/dust suppression ponds, or other surface impoundments on site."

On November 9, 2015, the GHBA, along with other local development stakeholders (TARGET), filed a Petition for Review with the Sixth Circuit in an effort to fight against this government overreach on property rights.

On February 22, 2016, the Sixth Circuit panel asserted jurisdiction over the appeal and issued a nationwide stay which delayed the implementation of the 2015 Rule. That stay, along with President Trump's executive order in February of last year instructing a full review of the "Waters of the U.S." regulation gave our industry some hope that this overreach would be mitigated.

In late January of this year, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously that the Sixth Circuit Court did not have jurisdiction to be the sole venue for the hearings related to the new WOTUS regulations passed under the Obama administration and instructed the Circuit Court to return the matter to the District Court level.

Shortly after that ruling, the EPA and the Army Corps adopted a new rule that would delay any implementation of the 2015 Rule until 2020.

On Aug. 16, 2018, the District Court for South Carolina ruled that the EPA had improperly added the 2020 implementation date to the 2015 rule. According to the NAHB, "the judge explained that the EPA had restricted the topics that the public could comment on when it proposed to add the applicability date. According to the court, this restriction denied the public a meaningful opportunity to comment on the applicability date rule. Thus, it nullified the applicability date rule nationwide."

What that meant was that 26 states could have immediately been regulated under the 2015 rule—including Texas. Although only time would have shed light on how the EPA and the Corps would have enforced the WOTUS rule, the uncertainty was cause for alarm.

Last month, however, Judge George Hanks Jr., of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas in Galveston, blocked implementation of the 2015 WOTUS rule in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Judge Hanks sided with Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton and the states of Louisiana and Mississippi who had requested the injunction.

"(The) district court ruling is a win for property owners in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, sparing them from the unlawful and impractical WOTUS rule that would allow EPA regulation of ponds, streams and puddles on private land," Paxton said. "By restoring principles of federalism to this area of law, the ruling is an even bigger win for the Constitution and the fundamental liberties it protects."

This ruling is only applicable for Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, meaning that 23 other states could be regulated under the WOTUS rule. There is another injunction request filed in Ohio that is pending.

While we have some relief here in Texas, this issue is not over. As the Trump administration and the EPA work to repeal and replace WOTUS with a new regulation, we will continue to monitor the situation and determine whether we will pursue further legal action.

Important Election on November 6

As we slowly transition from summer to fall, it is important to remember that we have a major election in November that will see us vote for numerous federal, state, county and judicial seats, including our congressional delegation as well as who will occupy the governor's mansion for the next four years.

There is a lot at stake during this election cycle, particularly in the post-Harvey political climate, and the candidates elected will have a significant impact on the homebuilding industry moving forward. Electing the most qualified, pro-housing candidates for local and state office is vital to the homebuilding industry and protecting housing affordability and consumer choices.

The GHBA HOME-PAC actively screened candidates and will make endorsements in a variety of state and local races. We will provide a list of HOME-PAC endorsed candidates for this election for you to take to the polls as early voting approaches.

Important election dates:

First Day of Early Voting:

GHBA Congratulates 2018 Scholarship Awardees

Each year, the GHBA Associate Council awards scholarships to students whose parents are members of the association. These scholarships are made possible through the generous donations of our members. Thank you to all our donors who make these awards possible!

This year, four deserving winners were presented with scholarship checks in the amount of $3,000 each. An official ceremony was held at the September 2018 GHBA board meeting.

The Associate Council would like to extend a special thank you to our outstanding donors. Contributors who donate $3,000 or more to the GHBA Scholarship Fund are recognized by having a scholarship awarded in their name. This year, two companies stepped up as presenting donors: Heritage Construction, and the Bill Ulrich Foundation provided by Newmark Homes.

Congratulations to the following scholarship recipients. GHBA wishes you all the best in your college careers and beyond!

Why is Healthcare So Expensive?

While there are many reasons why healthcare spending is growing much faster than the economy — including an aging population and the rising cost of prescription drugs — one problem that gets virtually no attention and is a primary cost driver is cross-subsidies.

The reason cross-subsidies exist in the first place is because lawmakers want to subsidize healthcare costs for the poor, the sick, and other potential voters — which is well meaning — but lawmakers do not want to raise taxes to pay for these programs. So they hide the taxes they should impose in the form of cross-subsidies.

Let me explain. If someone with no money walks into an emergency room and needs care, they get care. But to recover the cost of services provided to the indigent, hospitals must overcharge everybody else.

Making matters worse, Medicare and Medicaid do not pay the full amount of their service cost. As a result, hospitals must substantially overcharge everybody else, and that unlucky bunch is patients with private insurance and those who pay cash.

Of course, giving free or subsidized healthcare to some by overcharging paying customers is essentially imposing a tax on those who can pay in order to subsidize those who can't or won't. But — and this is the key — this hidden tax does not appear anywhere. As such, it is politically costless, and that's why it is so appealing to politicians. If that were all, it would not be so bad. But it gets worse, much worse.

Cross-subsidies are much more inefficient than raising taxes and spending the revenue on, in this case, healthcare. Here's why.

In an ideal market, if a hospital or doctor is going to overcharge some patients, those patients will have an incentive to shop around for a cheaper insurance plan. That insurance plan could be cheaper if it sends patients to hospitals and doctors who don't overcharge. But if enough such plans were to exist, the entire system would fail because these new low-cost providers would drive the high-cost providers out of business and the poor would not be served.

Thus, the introduction of cross-subsidies must be accompanied by a prohibition on competition. One of the ways we see this lack of competition manifesting itself is insurance plans such as bronze, silver, and gold all offering the same services.

And once there is no competition, there is no incentive for any non-competitive service providers to innovate for better care or lower costs, and that, in turn, drives up costs for everyone.

If you are old enough, you remember that prior to the 1980s, local phone calls were cheap, often free. That was because long distance calls were very expensive; there was cross-subsidy from long distance calls to local calls. Of course, firms wanted to compete to provide overpriced long-distance calls, but the system would have unraveled. So the federal government gave AT&T a monopoly and, in that way, kept competitors out and prices up.

Once there is no competition, be it in telecommunications, airlines, trucking, banking, or stock trading, inefficiencies multiply and prices rise.

Returning to healthcare, because of this lack of any meaningful competition, consumers know the cost of nothing they consume and care even less. What kind of market operates well when prices are well hidden? If there were real price competition, consumers would be bombarded with ads boasting of better prices and outcomes and we would all be winners.

Increasing taxes and spending, while hardly ideal, sure beats cross-subsidies and the attendant monopolies that drive up costs, prevent firm entry, and eliminate innovation.

Until cross-subsidies are eliminated, U.S. healthcare costs will continue to spiral out of control and we will be able to do nothing more than wish for a competitive, innovative and efficient healthcare market. ■

HomeAid Houston

Katy Homeowner Shares Hurricane Harvey and BuildAid Experience

Oliver Lee and his family are residents of Katy, Texas. The Lee family was the first homeowner who received assistance from BuildAid Houston, a David Weekley and HomeAid Houston/GHBA initiative to help get homeowners who were flooded by Hurricane Harvey, back in their restored homes.

Oliver was asked to be a guest speaker in August at a press conference held by the mayor's office to promote Proposition A, the $2.5 billion flood bond proposal that will fund more than 200 projects across Harris County with the goal to improve infrastructure in every watershed in the county during a 10 to 15 year period. Oliver shared his experience as his home flooded, and the recovery and restoration that took place afterward. Here is his story in his own words:

"One year ago this month, our family went through the devastation which is called Hurricane Harvey. When the water began to come into our home on that day, we didn't know what to do. I'm originally a Jersey boy, but 20 years now in Texas. When the water began coming in and after the shock and awe, we knew that we had to get to work. So we began to call our friends and neighbors. We were visited by volunteers from churches and different organizations. We began to gut our house, taking out everything that was affected by the water.

"A few months passed and after everything we could do was done, we began our building process. This took a lot of time, a lot of effort. There was a lot of confusion with a lot of phone calls. We became victims of contractor fraud, as did so many others.

"But I thank God for the people from BuildAid and David Weekley who began a program that actually helped us, called BuildAid. We were the very first homeowners receiving assistance from BuildAid. We are now back in our home and it was such a relief to work with these professionals."

After the press conference, Oliver Lee describes the process of preparing his home for remediation and shared his emotions.

"Within 24 hours after the water receded, we got to work immediately. We began removing our wood floors and carpet on the first floor, and within the first 48 hours with the help of our extended church family, we had removed the furniture, wet sheetrock and insulation all throughout the damaged area. Within the first week we removed the cabinets in our kitchen after discovering they we saturated. We spent days and nights cleaning and doing a lot of demo work. People from all over the country were walking in and out of our house lending a hand. In the end we received help from: Texas, Oregon, Hawaii, New Jersey, California and Illinois.

"At night I was emotional, worrying about my family and what would happen next. But then one night, as a I looked at the 'skeleton' of my house, I came to the conclusion that God was with me, in the middle of my mess, so I grabbed a marker and began writing all of God's promises for my life and for my family on EVERY stud throughout my home. It was a healing and hope–inspiring moment for me in the middle of the process. And then I met the builders from BuildAid. We are now back in our beautifully restored home because of the BuildAid team. We have so much to be grateful for!"

ABOUT BUILDAID

BuildAid was formed just days after Hurricane Harvey passed through the Houston area. The plan, proposed by David Weekley through the David Weekley Family Foundation, included organizing teams of GHBA builders and trades to restore the homes of low–to–moderate income families, who might not have the means to recover.

BuildAid currently has 50 homeowners on the path to construction, 31 homes under construction and 14 homes completed. The goal is to complete at least 250 restorations. Builders who have, or who are participating include: David Weekley Homes, Chesmar Homes, Taylor Morrison, Partners in Building, Colina Homes, Sandcastle Homes and Greeneco Builders.

HomeAid Breaks Ground on 50th Project

HomeAid Houston was joined by David Weekley Homes at the ceremonial groundbreaking of The Village at Gracewood – Next Step Project, the first four of eight duplexes that will house mothers who need additional time on the Gracewood campus to finish their education or certification program. This groundbreaking marks the 50th HomeAid Houston project in its 15–year history.

Gracewood is a Children at Heart ministry that provides housing for mothers and their children who need a safe haven from crisis situations. These units will give them the ability to learn to live independently while still being able to access counseling and other services on the Gracewood campus. This is part of a larger campus expansion project that includes the completed construction of a volunteer center and a community center that is in the planning stages. The David Weekley Homes construction team is being led by Brian Underwood, Mark Welch and Nancy Reid. Mark Atkins with MASA Studio is the project's architect.

After an inspirational gathering at the site that included the David Weekley Homes and HomeAid teams, as well as representatives from Gracewood, GHBA and numerous vendors and guests, gold shovels marked the site in tribute to the upcoming construction.

Representing David Weekley Homes were Mark Welch, land acquisition manager and Randall Rowlett, construction manager. HomeAid representatives were Patrick Mayhan, vice president of purchasing for Westin Homes and the 2019 HomeAid president; Bette Moser, the soon–to–retire executive director of HomeAid and Carl Salazar, incoming executive director; and GHBA's Casey Morgan, CEO. Also in attendance from Children at Heart Ministries was Todd Roberson, CEO and from Gracewood were Larry Bertrand, chairman; Jenny Rice–Cotton, president; Gracewood client Rachel Lockett, and Freeman Marshall. Mark Atkins with MASA Studio was also on–hand.

Also part of the celebration were board members and staff from HomeAid Houston and Gracewood and vendors who are donating their materials and services.

"The groundbreaking ceremony has been a much anticipated event for the whole team," said Patrick Mayhan. "It's an important day for many reasons, especially for the mothers and children of Gracewood who are working hard to change their lives. It is also a time for HomeAid to celebrate our 50th project in our 15 years of serving the homeless of Houston."

Highland Homes Partners with Vendors for GHBA Charity

Highland Homes, one of two builders constructing a GHBA Benefit Home in 2018, is nearing completion of its Windemere Plan in the community of Balmoral. Land Tejas donated the homesite.

Early in the planning, Highland secured vendor and supplier donations that are ensuring the sale of this home will provide much needed funds to local charities. HomeAid Houston and Operation Finally Home are the beneficiaries.

Highland's Windemere Plan is 2,250 sq. ft. and features four bedrooms, three baths and a two-car garage. The island kitchen overlooks the spacious and open dining and living room, with a soaring two story ceiling and access to the extended outdoor living area.

The master suite is downstairs with a large walk-in closet. Other features of this home include an additional bedroom and full bath downstairs, a game room and two upstairs bedrooms.

This is the 16th lot that Land Tejas has donated to the Benefit Homes Project.

The second Benefit Home recently broke ground in Grand Vista. Taylor Morrison/Darling Homes has completed construction on its Rosebay Plan and that home recently sold.

ABOUT THE PROJECT:

Each year two homes are built for this GHBA charity fundraiser with donated land, construction management, materials, labor and services by GHBA members. These homes are constructed with upgrade materials and features and are sold at market value. Since the project began 38 years ago, over $10 million has been raised.

Breaking Down Smart Home Technology Seminar

Instructor: Kimberly Lawrence, Connect One
Date: Wednesday, October 24
Time: 9am to 11am
Fee: $35 members / $50 non-members

Content: We have entered a time where our cars can be started without keys and our voices can lower the volume of the radio. We can open a trunk with the wave of a foot and see what's behind us without turning around to look. In an age where technology is demanded from our vehicles, why do we accept less when it comes to our homes? Let's discuss what it means to have a smart home and steps we can take to bring technology over the threshold and into our daily living.

Hurricane Season Preparation and Best Practices for the Aftermath

Instructor: Dan Bawden, CGR, GMB, CAPS, CGR
Date: Wednesday, October 24
Time: 2pm to 4pm
Fee: $35 members / $50 non-members

Content: With hurricane season upon us, what is the biggest problem remodelers experience during a disaster's aftermath and what can be done in advance to prepare the possible high winds in hurricanes and the major flooding that can occur?

Guest speaker Dan Bawden is an NAHB member and a remodeler/builder and owner of Legal Eagle Contractors Co. In 2017, the same year he served as chairman of NAHBR, Hurricane Harvey devastated Houston and the surrounding areas. This was Dan's fifth large-scale hurricane, tropical storm and flooding event, with three occurring in just the last two years. He has more experience than he wishes he had in dealing with widespread natural disasters. Dan has published articles for, and advised many of his fellow builders and remodelers in the greater Houston area about coping with the massive influx of calls that come in to small construction businesses following a natural disaster.

Houston Floodplain Training

Instructor: J.Paul Abrams, Smart Vent Director of Field Operations and Julie Close, Smart Vent Flood Mitigation Specialist
Date: Tuesday, October 30
Time: 2pm to 4pm
Fee: $35 members / $50 non-members

Content: This course will clarify the new Houston building codes in flood prone areas, and other standards as they relate to sustaining foundations in flood hazard areas. Attendees will also analyze the role of building compliance in lowering flood insurance rates and what mitigation solutions are available to existing structures.

In addition, this course will focus on the potential hazards to buildings located in floodplains, the differences between wet floodproofing and dry floodproofing techniques and when they are applicable, and the differences between engineered and non-engineered flood openings and their ability to ensure resilient structures in the Houston Metro area.

TWO COMPANIES

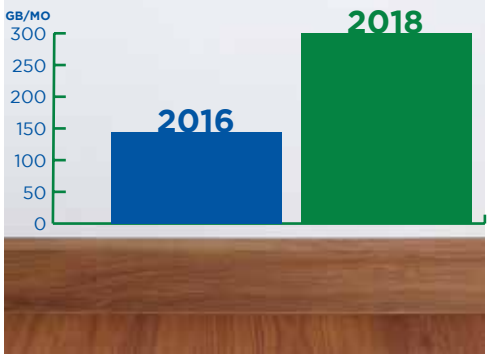
Smart-Home Technology that was once a luxury for high-end home buyers just a few short years ago has become a fundamental feature for today's new homes in Houston. The numbers speak for themselves; over 58% of Millennials, 50% of Gen Xers, and 26% of Baby Boomers have smart-home technology embedded in their homes. [1] This rapid growth is thanks in part to companies like Datasmart Home Technologies LLC and Duncan Security LLC for making smart-home technology more accessible, affordable, and automated than ever before.

Wired for The Future

It takes more than a DIY kit to make a house a smart-home. Every homeowner has different needs, and what truly makes for a smart-home are the solutions that address those needs. In the end it's not the device that makes a home smart rather the combination of devices that deliver that solution. And for Datasmart Home Technologies that solution begins with a smarter wiring approach.

Datasmart Home Technologies works with production, semi-custom, and custom builders before start of the home construction process beginning with low-voltage wiring, and is involved all the way through to a one-on-one home orientation with the home owner to introduce them to their new smart-home technology. Datasmart is also known for designing custom solutions that can adapt to each customer's long-term needs- a term which the company refers to as "Future Proofing" a home.

Monthly Household Wi-Fi Usage
DOUBLED in TWO YEARS [2]



Datasmart's latest addition in Future-Proofing technology comes in the form of a Wi-Fi transparent centralized wiring hub. By swapping the metal wiring cannister with a lightweight plastic enclosure, Datasmart is able to create Wi-Fi transparency, allowing the modem and cables to be housed without visible cable clutter or signal loss. This simple solution turns the average home into a "Wi-Fi Ready Home", something that's already been a hot topic for home buyers in 2018.

Its important to note that while the current trend is to think wireless, wireless does not mean cordless, so thinking through the right kind of wire that will make the homeowners wireless experience better is essential. Designing the right wiring plan making best use of your wiring hub will help you build a strong platform that is aesthetically pleasing to the design of the home and give the homeowner the best of what wired and wireless have to offer.

Fanatically Responsive Customer Service

At Datasmart, our builder relationships are at the core of our business plan. And we believe that the key to creating a mutually beneficial relationship between Datasmart and our builder partners is providing fanatically responsive customer service at every point in the home buyer's life cycle. This applies to home buyers in every price bracket, from production to custom. When a home buyer walks into one of our four Technology

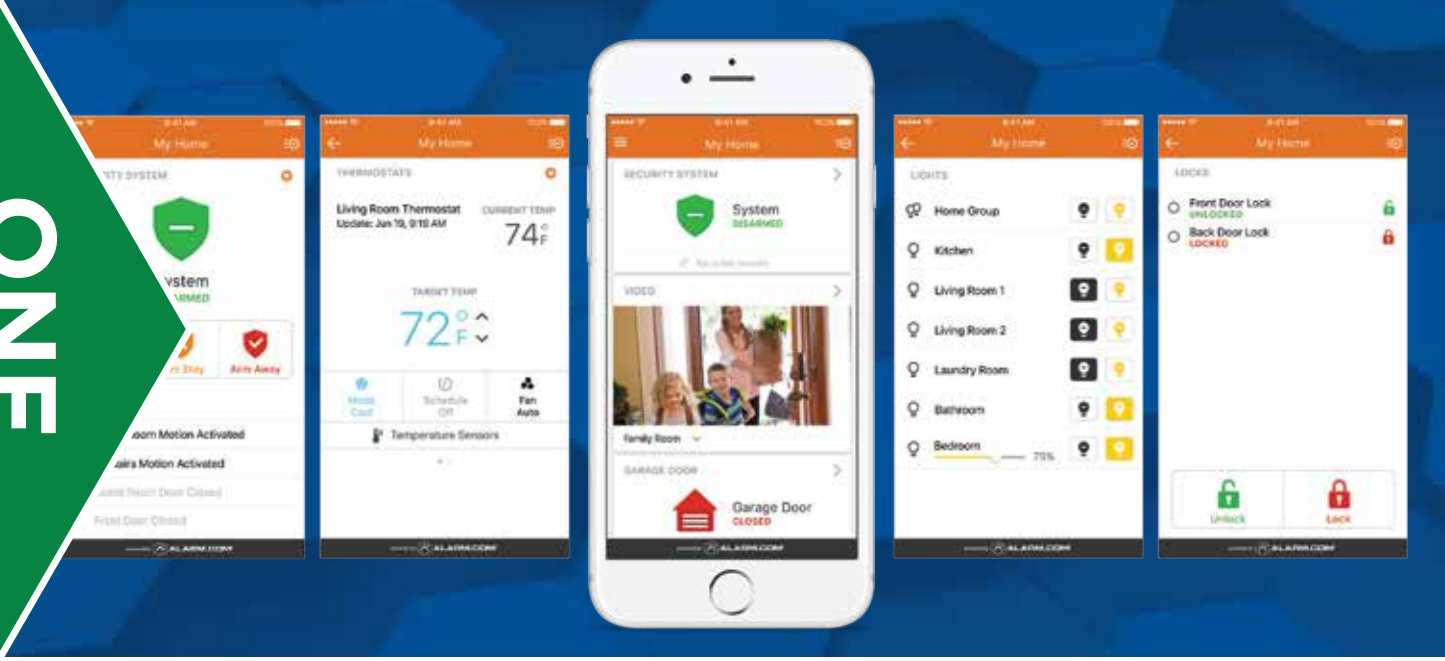
MISSION ONE



Showrooms, they will have the opportunity to meet with a Datasmart Technology Consultant and thoroughly discuss their needs and wants for their new home. We review their selections using the builder's blueprint so they are able to see exactly how their system will be integrated into their new home. This process allows home buyers to envision precisely how their technology solutions will operate, and the real impacts they will have in making their home experience more enjoyable.

Supporting this kind of personalization isn't easy. Datasmart utilizes an in-house support staff to answer customer questions, schedule appointments and service, and much more. When someone calls us, they're going to speak to someone local who has complete visibility to what's already been done in their home so we can quickly and efficiently address their needs.

Control at your fingertips

There's nothing more frustrating than trying to watch a movie and having to figure out which of your ten remotes controls the blu ray player.
Consumers new to smart-home technology know this frustration all too well. Most of the smart-home devices on the market come with their own app. There's an app for your doorbell camera, an app for your thermostat, and an app for your lighting. Out of the box, none of them communicate or integrate with the others making it virtually impossible to have a single point of control. As the amount of available technology increases this problem is amplified.
Datasmart takes the integration of multiple apps and solves them. One way Datasmart has been solving this is through our sister company, Duncan Security LLC. As the sales and support arm for security, Duncan Security partners with companies like Alarm.com and Honeywell Total Connect to provide customers with a single security-based access point for their smart-home technology. Almost all of the technology offered by Datasmart can be integrated into any of Duncan Security's platforms, allowing customers to control their entire home from one app. This frees up storage space on the customer's device, makes their lives easier, and ensures full visibility at all times without having to bounce between apps. This minimizes steps a user has to take to execute tasks, and more importantly allows for smart scenes, rules, and scheduling to fulfill the smart solution that multiple devices working in sequence can provide. In the end, whether you're looking for a system-based solution such as Control 4 or a service-based approach such as alarm.com or quite possibly both, Datasmart Home Technologies and Duncan Security LLC are your builder focused integration source. We were built by Houston to create a smarter Houston.

Celebrating 20 years of being DATASMART

If you are interested in helping recruit members, the GHBA Membership/Ambassador Committee invites you to the next committee meeting and lunch at the GHBA. For more information, contact Cynthia Fagan at 281-664-1425 or cfagan@ghba.org.

On behalf of the GHBA, I would like to extend a big welcome to all of our new members! We couldn't be more thrilled that you've made this commitment to the Houston building community as well as to your own business development.

Visit ghba.org for information on all upcoming events or contact the Membership Department at (281) 664-1425 to get involved and put your membership to work! I am always happy to talk to new members about how to get involved or my personal experience with the GHBA.

If you have been a GHBA member for a while, please take a minute to extend a warm "hello" and congratulate our newest members listed on the next page for supporting the building industry. And remember, "When doing business, call on a member first!"

Here's what our members have to say about the GHBA...

I came to Houston in 1999. After a few weeks as division manager for a cabinet company, the owner called and asked if I had joined the Greater Houston Builders Association. I asked, "What's the Greater Houston Builders Association?" He told me to get up there and get involved. That was the best career decision I have ever made.

The first event I attended was the Associate Council luncheon. I walked in and saw several of my competitor company reps and asked myself, "Why in the world would I want to hang out with my competition?"

After the luncheon a rep from one of my major competitors made it a point to introduce himself. I was skeptical to say the least. Why was this guy being so friendly? I was there to take his business.

We became good friends and he showed me what the GHBA is all about. There is plenty of business for everyone. Networking means helping each other become more successful; it's not about taking each other's business. My advice to new members, SHOW UP AND GET INVOLVED!

The Formula for Success as an Associate

Over the last few months, I have noticed a wonderful increase in new faces and new company names joining our Associate Council luncheons. In fact, the GHBA has hit record membership in 2018! I'd like to take this time to welcome our new associate members and give some advice on how to find their place within our council, networking, and best practices selling and marketing to our homebuilder customers.

Congratulations! You're an associate. Now what?

Associate members work for companies that provide goods or services to our homebuilder partners, and the Associate Council makes up two-thirds of the GHBA membership. It's fair to say we're a large council!

We also host some of the association's favorite events: BBQ Cook-Off, Chili Cook-Off, Spring Golf Tournament, Adopt-a-Family Project, annual scholarships, and more.

Successful events require the help of associate member volunteers and we want you to get involved. I suggest choosing one of our eight committees and jumping in. There's no application or official acceptance process. Just show up and you're in!

Long Game

It's proper to set expectations early-on, and many of our seasoned members will advise that involvement in the association is a marathon, not a sprint. This, my friends, is true. By showing up to meetings, participating on committees, and volunteering at events, you will reap the seeds you sow. Networking won't immediately bring your company business, but it will start laying the groundwork for you to be viewed as someone who believes in our industry. Trust and dependability are cornerstones of building solid relationships in this market.

Think Outside the Box and Get Noticed

The Associate Council is comprised of similar companies marketing similar products, so you have to get to know your competition and determine where you and your company fit within the market. How are you going to set yourself apart from similar companies? Here's a hint—you're missing the mark if you just focus on pricing, quality, and service. What do you have to offer that no one else can provide?

The Houston homebuilding market is vast and dynamic, so you have to get to know your customer base. Attending the monthly luncheon will help set you on a path to success. Our topics and panelists vary from month to month, but our questions are designed to help you learn about the many homebuilders. We ask questions about unit projections, average price points, options buyers are requesting, current trade challenges, how best to get a meeting, and so much more.

The Associate Council's final meeting of 2018 was held on October 4 and featured one of the most anticipated topics of the year, Emerging Builders. Thank you to all who attended and to our sponsors.

The BBQ Cook-Off will be held Friday, November 9. Teams are selling out fast so sign up today to reserve your booth for this year's sell-out event.

GREATER HOUSTON BUILDERS ASSOCIATION

Tricks and Treats

We are now in October and All Hallow's Eve is almost upon us. There is a lot happening in Texas, Greater Houston, and Montgomery County on many fronts. We are barreling towards one of the most consequential midterm elections in recent memory, a trade war with China continues to intensify, discussions loom with Canada and Mexico on a NAFTA makeover, the economy continues to grow at a break neck pace, AND the Texas Aggies appear to have a quarterback of the future on their hands. Spooky times indeed. With that being said, I want to point out some tricks and treats that we need to be cognizant of moving forward.

National homebuilding trends are starting to slow. The Housing Market Index (HMI) is down from its highs in the first and second quarters of this year. This can be attributed to natural seasonality in housing and continued shocks from feedstock increases such as lumber and labor. The Fed continues to raise interest rates with six rate hikes of 0.25 since the 2016 presidential election. There is continued speculation that we have another six rate hikes to go before the Fed will taper off with further action.

This is the trick so pay attention, national homebuilders will be feeling the pinch between rising labor costs and rate hikes much sooner than the local folks in Montgomery County and Greater Houston. If you are a division president or land acquisition professional, your mantra for the next nine months needs to be the following:

- Houston is counter cyclical to the national economy. WTI is north of $70/barrel currently and has been above $60/barrel for all of 2018. We are not slowing down.
- 90% of near future lot positions are spoken for. Self-development is arguably the way to go.
- Small lots/homes are appealing to try but the room for error is small because margins are tight.

The good news is, there are some treats that we can look forward to in 2019. Consumer confidence continues to soar, inflation continues to be stubbornly low, and the unemployment rate at the state level continues to decline. That is a recipe for success in 2019 and 2020. The key, is to analyze how your homebuyer is affected by interest rate risk and their purchasing power. Hopefully, you can be armed with this information to avoid any Halloween surprises.

We hope you will join us at the 8th Annual Montgomery County Builders & Developers Division's Halloween on the Green golf tournament at Walden Golf Club on Monday, October 29. For teams and sponsorship information, give Mel Audain a call at 281-664-1428.

Houston Haunts Promise Ghoulish Fun

Houston, we are right around the corner from the end of the year but most importantly... it's October and my favorite month of the year! For a playful note on this month's article I took the liberty of exploring some of Houston's haunted past as we approach Halloween. Thanks to visithoustontexas.com I highlight some spooky places and caution you to read at your own risk.

Spaghetti Warehouse, 901 Commerce St: Can you imagine venturing to the second floor of a restaurant and finding dishes floating in the air? How about trying to open up for business each day only to have to move tables and chairs around that were mysteriously moved overnight? The Spaghetti Warehouse is said to be one of the most haunted establishments in the city. Having personally visited on All Hallows Eve myself, it is definitely an eerie place.

The Rice Hotel, 909 Texas Avenue: How about imagining ghost dancers in a ballroom? Sounds like something from Disney's Haunted Mansion but these stories are real life occurrences that have been reported at the Rice Hotel before it was renovated to the Rice Lofts. Apparently, the rooftop has now become the all night dance party spot.

La Carafe, 813 Congress St: Also in Downtown, La Carafe stands as the oldest bar in Houston built in 1866. Former bartender, Carl, is said to frequent the bar's second floor and bathrooms. If for nothing else, enjoying a glass of wine at the city's oldest bar should be on your "must happen" list.

The University of Texas Medical Branch's Ewing Hall, 700 Harborside, Galveston: Although not technically in Houston, when I read about this haunting I had to include it. Per legend, the land owner where this building stands promised to haunt his family if they sold his land. His face now appears on the side of the building after multiple attempts by the school to remove it. Don't have time to drive to Galveston? Google it and you will be sure to get chills.

Need more ghostly action? Check out visithoustontexas.com/things-to-do/historic-sites/haunted-places/ for a list of Houston's haunted locations. Happy Ghost Hunting!

2018 Custom Builders Council Chair

Matt Sneller, CGP, GMB, CAPS

Sneller Custom Homes and Remodeling, LLC

Partnering for Success

September's Custom Builders Council luncheon covered a wide range of products that can help builders improve their construction projects. Representatives from Multivista were on hand to share how their company takes pictures and videos throughout the building process, which allows you to see every stage of the home and can help eliminate many unforeseen conditions and costs.

Adrian Vuyk with Steadfast Foundation Technologies demonstrated how his foundation system gathers data throughout the lifetime of the home. If movement is detected, action can be taken early, reducing costs and helping foundations last for generations, not years.

Toner Kersting with Toner Home Matters discussed the purpose of solar readiness design and the incorporation of storage walls as an alternative to a natural gas generator.

There will be no monthly CBC luncheon in October due to the Product Expo. We encourage all members to join us at the Expo! This great event will host 110 vendors with their latest and greatest products and services on display. The Expo is also the perfect opportunity to attend a contract seminar and renew your access for another year.

Participation is vital to accomplishing the council's mission, and getting involved with the Custom Builders Council is a fantastic opportunity both personally and professionally. We hope to you see you at our next meeting on Nov. 15.

Thank you to representatives Stephen Costello and Jamila Johnson from the City of Houston along with RMC's Government Affairs Committee Chair Jeff Roberts for the lively, informative panel discussion on Chapter 19. I encourage everyone to join us on Oct. 9 for a panel of our own members to discuss "Mold – The Other 4-Letter Word."

Garage Sale Right Around the Corner

Please clear your calendars to help with the next Garage Sale, October 20-21. The Garage Sale Committee members have been hard at work throughout the year planning the event and soliciting donations. This is a great place to donate your leftover inventory or items you have tucked away in your warehouse. Donations are tax deductible!

We are so blessed in our thriving industry and donating or volunteering is a great way to help others less fortunate in our community. Proceeds from the sale will fund the Council's annual charity project in the spring. That is why it is so important to be involved. The hard work at the Garage Sale produces compounded benefits for our community which directly impacts the lives of those most in need.

Contact Michael Jorewicz at mike@vejore.com or Will Cole at will@divinerenovation.com to donate materials or volunteer to help at this mammoth 8,000 square foot garage sale.

Leo Meerman and Bill Carter Scholarships

This year the Remodelers Council will award two $1,000 scholarships to children and grandchildren of Remodelers Council members. We are expanding our scholarship dedication to include long time GHBA and RMC board member Bill Carter who passed on August 22. Bill had a passion for generously giving his time to help others grow in this association and was always leading a volunteer army in all our events. The deadline to apply is November 6, 2018, and the scholarships will be awarded in December. Contact Donna Buenik at dbuenik@ghba.org for more information.

Operation Finally Home and RMC Launch Home Modification Program for Veterans

Operation FINALLY HOME (OFH) was born in 2005. For many years the charity has partnered with developers and home builders across the country to build custom homes for deserving veterans.

We are proud to announce the new Home Modification Program is here, expanding our reach to fill the remodeling needs of veterans.

The process starts with a remodeler who lets Operation FINALLY HOME know they want to participate. Once a recipient is identified, OFH and the remodeler will access the needs, then the remodeler will prepare an estimate with a reasonable profit and OFH will fund what is needed over and above what the veteran may have available to put toward the repairs/modifications.

Should you feel called to serve, whether through raising your hand to remodel, hosting a fundraiser, facilitating an introduction with potential supporters, or donating time, money or material, we are grateful for your help.

For more information, please contact Lee Kirgan, OFH vice president project management and GHBA member at 903-644-1788 or Lee.Kirgan@OperationFinallyHome.org.

ALLPOINTS SURVEYING WELCOMES NEW CUSTOMER RELATIONS MANAGER

Allpoints Surveying, a surveying company specializing in new construction, is proud to welcome Kendall McDermott as the company's customer relations manager. Kendall will be responsible for maintaining and growing customer satisfaction, loyalty, and retention while increasing overall market share.

She joins the Allpoints team from RoofTec. RoofTec is a turnkey roofing contractor for residential new builds in the Houston area. It was there that Kendall served as the director of marketing and sales. During her time at RoofTec, she directed all marketing and sales initiatives as well as all business development efforts.

Kendall has been heavily involved in the Greater Houston Builders Association over the last several years. She currently holds a seat on the boards of the Custom Builders Council and the Volume Builders Committee, and was named 2017 Outstanding Young Professional. In 2019, Kendall will hold a seat on the GHBA board of directors.

In 2016, Kendall began her involvement with HomeAid Houston, sitting on the Marketing Committee as well as chairing the auction portion of the annual golf tournament. Kendall joined the HomeAid board of directors in 2017 and currently sits on the Executive Committee as the development chair, partnering with staff to oversee HomeAid's development efforts.

"I am thrilled and excited to join the Allpoints team. Allpoints has a pristine reputation and is very well respected in the building industry. I could not think of a better company to call home. I look forward to bringing my experience and expertise to the table, helping maintain that reputation while expanding the business in new markets."

Steve Wilson, Allpoints president and COO, states, "Kendall's organizational and planning abilities are going to be put to good use at Allpoints and we really are looking forward to working with her. We've been told by prominent Houston builders that we could not have made a better choice than Kendall."

LAND TEJAS ANNOUNCES EMPLOYEE PROMOTIONS

Land Tejas, a Houston-based firm celebrating 21 years of residential development, recently promoted two employees to key positions within the company.

James Henrie has assumed the role of chief operating officer. Henrie joined Land Tejas in 2001 as a project manager where he oversaw the development of some of Land Tejas' largest master-planned communities, including nationally-ranked Canyon Lakes West in Cypress. Most recently, Henrie has served as the company's director of land acquisition and development. In this role, he has been responsible for all land development and acquisition matters including feasibilities, proformas, budget management, construction oversight and investor relations. In addition to these responsibilities, Henrie is now responsible for the company's growth, operations, sales and marketing activities.

"As Land Tejas grows, so do the opportunities for individual growth," said Jennifer Keller, president of Land Tejas. "James has been a phenomenal asset to the company since the day he was hired. His knowledge will be invaluable as we work to expand our signature brand of communities throughout the Houston area."

Land Tejas also has promoted Melanie Mangel to the position of chief financial officer. Since joining Land Tejas in 2005, Mangel has served as controller with direct responsibility for all accounting, land transactions, cash management and office management matters. In addition to her current responsibilities, Mangel will now be responsible for all financial planning, financial reporting and banking relations.

"Melanie is incredibly talented," Keller said. "Her ability to add value to every aspect of our business makes her an invaluable member of our team."

Land Tejas is one of the largest developers of master-planned communities in the greater Houston area. The company is responsible for the development of Miramesa at Canyon Lakes West, Lago Mar, Sierra Vista, Wedgewood Forest, Vanbrooke, Etteridge and Balmoral.
